

Re: NAB's Petition 04-160

The FCC as a governing body representing "All" broadcast mediums and their representatives should not be swayed by the special interests and corporate pressures from their associated lobby groups. Without competition, the future of all broadcast medium becomes stagnant. The sheer contempt of NAB's members toward the emerging technologies of satellite radio exemplifies their unwillingness to adapt. Failure to maintain a fertile and competitive environment for this medium will eventually lead to self-regulating monopolies and the potential dissolution of it's governing body.
